Blacks Meet To Iron Out Political Party Charter

By SHUARA R. WILSON

This past weekend nearly 2,000 blacks from 26 states met in Philadelphia to draw up an agenda for forming a new national political party.

Yolanda Robinson, vice president of the Ohio Black Political Assembly, said that when the first political convention of blacks met in Philadelphia 150 years ago, its goal was the same as it is today: "Self-determination for black people."

By the close of the three day convention a committee had been selected to set up a permanent charter to be adopted at a convention planned for next summer.

Convention delegates, who had submitted lists of priorities they felt should be addressed by the organization, pledged to return to their communities to organize local party committees.

Ms. Robinson said that prior to the summer meeting the Ohio chapter of BPA will meet in January to talk with those who might be interested in the party.

"It's time for a black political party. It's obvious that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans are going to support blacks," she said.

According to Ms. Robinson, the political party will be supported exclusively by black funds. "We will not be taking money from any foundations or whites," she stressed.

"Whoever runs on the party ticket will be running on monies entirely from the black community. Our representatives will be accountable to the black community," she continued.

The party was formed from the NBP, that first met in Gary, Ind. in 1972. In August during the fourth NBPA convention the group adopted a resolution creating a national political party.

Former Xavier Star Charged In Murders Of Four Prostitutes

Shock. Disbelief. Dismay. These are the prevailing moods in Highland Park following the arrest and arraignment on murder charges of hometown athletic hero David J. Payton, 23, who has been accused of the sex slaying of four prostitutes and is being investigated in similar deaths of others during the past year.

Similar sentiments were expressed in Cincinnati, where Payton was a basketball star at Xavier University two years ago.

"No, no, not Doc," exclaimed one of his former teammates on the Highland Park High school basketball team when the arrest was announced on a Saturday evening newscast. "They've got the wrong man. Doc wouldn't hurt a fly."

Payton, coach of the high school's girls' basketball team, said that prior to the summer meeting the Ohio chapter of

Five Indicted In Eastside Drug Sweep By Police

Five suspects rounded up in a swift Eastside drug sweep in which a total of 18 were arrested, were indicted Monday by the Franklin County grand jury on charges of selling a prescription drug, as a substitute for heroin. The CALL & POST learned Monday.

The Vernon Club, Mt. Vernon Ave. and 20th St., which police said was a victim of circumstances because drug pushers used it as a point of contact, was the focal point of the sweep.

Of the 18 suspects arrested, indictments were returned against the following suspects, according to a court house source:

Joan A. Jones, 31, 6141 Laurelwood Ct., and Theodore E. Strung, 24, 290 N. Champion Ave., both two counts of aggravated trafficking in illicit drugs.

Patricia Liscomb, 32, 178 1/2 Wilson Ave., Gregory Cogor, 20, 212 S. Ohio Ave., and James R. Bannerman, 42, of 952 Bryden Rd., one count each on charges of aggravated trafficking in drugs.

All the suspects were still in custody at CALL & POST deadline this week.

The grand jury handed down the indictments after evidence in the cases were presented by the office of Franklin County prosecuting attorney Michael Miller.

Minority Businesses Stand To Gain Millions In State Contracts By Bill Passage

A bill requiring that 15 percent of all state contracts for goods and services be allocated to Minority-owned firms, along with 12 percent of all state construction contracts, was approved Monday by the Ohio Senate.

The measure, Amended H.B. 584, was guided through the Senate by Senator William F. Bowen, (D-Cincinnati), 26 to 6. It was returned to the House for concurrence of Senate amendments, expected before the Legislature adjourns this weekend. Bowen, a co-sponsor of the bill and its chief spokesman during the debate, said passage of the bill could mean "an estimated $250-million in revenues to minority communities and more jobs for us."

During a briefing session Monday in a conference room of the State Tower, 30 E. Broad St., Bowen told a statewide delegation of concerned black citizens, "I'm optimistic that Gov. James A. Rhodes will either

Father Of Slain Youth 'Cannot Buy Assailant's Tale', Plans Own Probe

Clifford Foster, whose 21 year old son, Kevin Shawn, was fatally shot by a 42 year old man who claimed he did not know the victim was chasing a robber, said, "I cannot buy that story."

Kevin was standing near the cash register Thursday about 4 p.m. in the Foster Carry-Out, 944 E. Livingston Ave. His father, 42, of 1561 E. Gates St., was working in the rear of the store.

At this time, according to police, a woman and a man walked into the store and told Kevin "this is a stick up." The man, who was armed with a gun, ordered Kevin to open the register. The robbers, after scooping an estimated $50 from the register, demanded to know "if this all of it," and ran from the store after the youth said that's all of it, police said.

Clifford, in the meantime, heard the robbers, grabbed an iron pipe, dashed out the back and accosted the suspects. He hit the man and knocked him down, but he got up and ran.

About that time, Clifford told police, Kevin ran out the store with a revolver and chased the male suspect, while his father chased the female north on Ohio Ave.

Police, who later identified the suspects as Denise Rene Slater, also known as Denise Johnson, 28, 1700 Oak St., and her brother, Keith-Edwards Johnson, said the pair split up. The woman ran east down an alley, while the man went west down the same alley.

Police gave this account of the following sequence of events:

Clifford lost sight of the woman and returned, finding Kevin standing at the rear of 612 S. 22nd St. He told his Dad that a man had entered the house.

The Fosters yelled for neighbors to call the police.

At this point, police said, (Continued On Page 7B)

Residents Voice Opposition To Building I-670

About 80 persons who say they will be adversely affected by construction of I-670 testified Saturday that they are totally against building the freeway from downtown to Ft. 62 near the Port Columbus Airport.

At a public hearing sponsored by the Federation of Community Organizations at the Shepard United Methodist Church, 2290 E. Fifth Ave., residents of the Milo-Grogan and Shepard areas said that the interstate would continue to force blacks to bear the brunt of highway expansion in Columbus.

Many of those speaking said that they had been displaced to their present locations because of previous highway expansion through black neighborhoods. Some said that they were senior citizens on fixed incomes and could not afford to purchase another house.

Senator Butts Ring Leader In Coup To Demote Black Senator

By JOHN B. COMBS

cratic State Senator who has a large black constituency, was a ring-leader in a sleazy coup that blocked black Senator M. Morris Jackson from holding a key position when the 1981-82 General Assembly convenes in January.

Senator Charles L. Butts, who represents the heavily black populated 23rd District, teamed with seven other dissident Democrats in forming a coalition that wrested the leadership from Jackson and Senate President Oliver Ocasek of Northfield.

Democrats lost their control of the Senate in the Nov. 4 election and will be outnumbered 18 to 15 by Republicans when the 114th General Assembly begins in January.

During the outgoing 113th General Assembly, Jackson, as President Pro Tempore, was second in command in the senate leadership. Ocasek, president, was the top official and presided over Senate deliberations.

Butts involvement in the coalition was obviously extremely embarrassing to Jackson, for he supported Butts' candidacy over a black candidate for the 23rd district senatorial seat two years ago.

In supporting Butts over black Cleveland City Councilman John Barnes, Jackson said at that time he was in "a ticklish" situation, in that the senate Democratic leaders were backing Butts and he was a member of that team.

At the coalition caucus, boycotted by Ocasek, Jackson and their five-member team, Senator Harry Meshel of Youngstown, was elected as the new minority leader. Senator Neal F. Zimmers, Dayton, was elected assistant minority leader.

Butts was chosen as minority whip, while Senator Timothy McCormack of Euclid, (31) district, was paying position of minority floor leader.

Incidentally, Meshel, had been a member of the Ocasek-Jackson official team, holding the position of assistant president pro tempore.

Other members of the coalition included Senators Thomas E. Carney, Girard, Ronald Nabakowski, Lorain; Charles Curran, Dayton; and Michael Schwarzwald, Columbus, who presided over the election.

The Ocasek-Jackson slate consisted of Senators Marigene Valiquette, Toledo, Marcus Roberto, Ravenna; Kenneth Cox, Barberton; William F. Bowen, Cincinnati; and Senator-elect Steven D. Maurer, of Botkins.

Although Jackson was unavailable for comment, several statehouse sources contend that Ocasek was the main target of the coalition. The action was an expression of disenchantment with Ocasek's leadership, they say.

It was also noted that Ocasek unseated Senator Anthony O. Calabrese as Senate Democratic leader after the 1974 election much the same way he was ousted.

Calabrese who had represented Cleveland's 22nd District for almost 25 years, was defeated at the Nov. 4 election. He was obviously jubilant over the coalition's action, saying "what's good for the goose is good for the gander."

Jackson, who has represented the 21st district for 14 years, was visibly shocked by the coup, because he has "gone out of his way to do favors for Butts and McCormack," one source said.

According to other statehouse sources, Butts and McCormack were among 12 Democrats who had committed themselves to the Ocasek-Jackson slate.

the Democratic leader since 1975, issued a terse statement Thursday saying he would call a meeting in the near future. "I intend to be a candidate for leadership at that meeting," he said.

In the meantime, McCormack, who had often been at odds with Ocasek's leadership, said in a television interview, that if he had not been a part of the revolt, he would not be in the second spot today.

Butts, obviously an ungrateful traitor in the mind of Jackson, whose only pay for an extremely important favor, was a slap in the face.

Butts' 23rd district, incidentally, takes in House Districts 9 and 15, represented by Reps. Troy Lee James and John D. Thompson, Jr., respectively. James and Thompson are both black.

Republican senators who will take control in January, elected Paul E. Gillmor, Port Clinton, president; Thomas A. Van Meter, Ashland, president pro tempore; and Stanley J. Aronoff, Cincinnati, majority whip.

Bowen, like Jackson, was unavailable for comment, but he may also be disappointed by the coalition, in that he campaigned extensively for Schwarzwald this year.

Schwarzwald, whose 16th district includes densely populated black communities, which he carried by overwhelming majorities at the Nov. 4 election, presided at the coalition session.

Bowen, one of two black senators, stuck with the Ocasek slate, thus the coalition leadership may not look on him with favor in assignment of committee membership.

But while Senate Democrats were involved in a bitter dispute, House Republicans were rocking with one of their own. The Republican caucus knocked off two conservative incumbents, replacing them with more moderates.

Rep. Waldo B. Rose of Lima, defeated Rep. William G. Batchelder of Medina for assistant minority leader. Rep. Helen G. Fix, Cincinnati, unseated Rep. Donna Pope, Parma, for minority whip.

House Democrats, who will control the House 58 to 43, defeated Rep. Francine M. Panahel of Cleveland for majority whip 26 to 25 for Rep. Arthur Wilkowski of Toledo.

The House also retained Rep. Vern Riffe Jr., of New Boston as House Speaker and Rep. William Mallory of Cincinnati as House Majority leader.

tion through the Near Eastside did not testify at a public hearing held by the State of Ohio and City of Columbus Oct. 1, said Khari Enaharo, chairman of the Federation.

The deadline for submitting public information on I-670 to the U.S. Department of Transportation officially was in October, but Enaharo said that would not prevent the Federation from forwarding Saturday's testimony to the federal government. He said the information would also be forwarded to the Columbus City Council and the Ohio Department of Transportation.

"A lot of the people who came here were elderly and they didn't have the transportation or the hours weren't conducive to their attending the public hearing downtown," Enaharo said following the testimony. In addition, he said, many persons who testified in favor of I-670 at the hearing at Veterans Memorial Auditorium took up enough time to discourage opposition speakers from waiting to give their views.

He said the Federation would forward its information to the three governmental bodies before the end of December.

"What we are trying to get is justice for these people. Some of the people are old and once they are brutally uprooted, there's nothing left for them," Enaharo said.

The freeway would cost about $164 million and displace about 100 families and 18 businesses in the Shepard and Milo-Grogan areas.

Hospital from a gunshot wound in his head, sheriff's deputies reported.

Although details were sketchy, Bell, Theodore Johnson, 24, and Gerald Long, 21, both of Canton, allegedly tripped a burglar alarm while burglarizing an IGA Foodliner store in Canton about 3:47 p.m. Saturday.

When deputies arrived at the store, the trio fled in a white car. An eight minute chase ended when the suspects' car crashed through a fence, they reported.

The three men, deputies said, started running and firing at them. They returned the fire, hitting Bell in the head and Johnson in an arm.

Two pistols and an undetermined amount of cash were recovered on the scene, deputies said.

which I agree and questioning those I feel hold no promise. I will continue to sit down with Republican legislative leaders, helping to shape the public policies which will impact on inner-city residents."

Turning to the concerns of inner-city youths, Jones noted, "This 'Lost Generation' that cannot read, write or do simple math problems is a result of years of benign neglect on the part of Democrat-dominated General Assemblies. In this election, Americans all across the country expressed their deep dissatisfaction with the 'wait-and-see' attitude of the Democrats.

"Sweeping Republican victories underline the fact that the people are tired of temporary, welfare-type programs that simply put Band-aids on problems. The voters and taxpayers of Ohio have expressed a desire for permanent solutions to these pressing difficulties which confront us," Jones noted.

Commenting on what those suggestions include, Jones said, "Artificial solutions like public employment will never solve the joblessness of inner-city residents. Only meaningful jobs with a future in the private sector can spur the economy to help all people escape the grips of chronic unemployment. This demands that tax incentives for businesses and an income tax cut for individuals be approved quickly."

Concluding, Jones said, "I'm looking for good things to start happening for all Ohioans. The sound economic policies of the Republican Party will lower the inflation rate, put people back to work again, and put the economy on firm ground."

Former Xavier Star Charged In Murders Of Four Prostitutes

ball team, was arrested last Wednesday night for questioning in the alleged rape of a 38-year-old Detroit woman. After questioning and investigation, he was charged on Saturday with the slaying of Bettye Rembert, 27, a convicted prostitute whose body was found Oct. 8 at the side of a residence on E. Boston Blvd.

Monday afternoon, he was charged with three more slayings, those of: Jeanette Woods, 24, who was found bound hand and foot on an eastside side- been portrayed to be.

"I just don't believe it," said one of his former neighbors on Cortland St., where the Payton family lived for a number of years before moving to their present address on Highland Ave.

"David was one of the finest youngsters I've ever known," she said, "always pleasant and polite. I just can't believe that he's capable of the thing they say he did."

Payton became a city-wide favorite during the 1974-75 basketball season when the Highland Park Polar Bears ended up as state champions. Although his high-scoring teammate Terry Duerod got most of the attention, Payton won the hearts of the sports-minded with his outstanding rebounding and consistently steady play.

"Though a lot of the players were taller than he was, he could get into the air with the tallest of them," said one fan.

He was nicknamed "Doctor J" because of his rebounding abilities and a play on his middle name (Jonathan). He was a particular favorite of his coach, Darrell Pursiful, who has refused any comment to the press since Payton's arrest.

Payton was also called "Doctor" and "Doc" because of his scholarly attitude. He maintained a near-perfect academic average during high school and was a member of the National Honor Society.

Following his graduation, he attended Xavier University on an athletic scholarship, majoring in physical education. After obtaining his degree, he returned home and was hired to coach the girls' basketball team at his alma mater.

"That's what I can't understand about this whole thing," said a member of the current boys' Varsity basketball team. "He never made a pass at any of those girls—never. In fact, he looked out for them like they were his sisters. Whenever they had a game, he'd make sure that all of them had a way home. And if some of them didn't, he'd take them home himself."

For the most part, school officials have refused to comment on Payton or the charges against him, as does his mother, Mrs. Ollie Payton, who said when contacted Sunday, her attorney had advised her not to make any statements to the press.

Perhaps one Highland Parker best summed up the feeling in the community: "This whole town is hurt," he commented, "particularly those who knew him well. My heart goes out to his mother. He was such a fine boy, and if it turns out that he is guilty, all I can say is there, but for the grace of God, goes my son."

"By controlling a building's energy consumption, automatically, you can reduce the energy costs for operating the building by ten percent to thirty percent annually," Bennett explained.

By surveying the customer's building and using the data provided from annual utility bills, the team of energy savers at ASTECH, Inc. are able to calculate the projected annual energy savings or cost avoidance, the former Bell Laboratories engineer said.

A formal proposal is then presented to the customer outlining savings, cost of savings, return on investment and tax benefits available by purchasing energy conservation equipment.

"Most conservation systems pay for themselves within 12 to 24 months," Bennett noted.

The sales market for the company is the small to medium sized commercial buildings, such as warehouses, grocery stores,

We not only have more kinds of high mileage front-wheel-drive cars than Ford, GM, Datsun or Toyota. We also back them with more front-wheel-drive owner experience—over 11 billion miles! Chrysler engineering has created Electronic Fuel Control which helped us achieve the first American cars to get 50 mpg. highway. And gives us the highest projected Corporate Average Fuel Economy rating of any American car company. In fact, if everybody drove one of Chrysler's front-wheel-drive cars, America wouldn't have to import another drop of OPEC oil for gasoline.

Check the chart at the right. You'll find that the New Chrysler Corporation offers you high mileage, room and advanced technology—all at very competitive prices.

Chrysler sales are up

Toyota are down.

Youth Meet To Discuss Their Role In The '80s

ESTES PARK, Colo. - Faced with what is perceived as a "yawn" in both church and nation where young people are concerned, 300 United Methodist adult leaders with youths gathered here recently to consider the dimension and direction of their task in the 1980s. A packed schedule, with little time for exploring the encircling Rocky Mountain peaks, ranged from philosophical considerations of family and world conditions facing teens today to introduction of new curriculum materials and other resources. A plethora of workshops ranged from clowning to human sexual- (Continued on Page 7A)

Dayton Hosts 88th Ohio Baptist Convention

By MARGARET WILLIAMS

The Ohio Baptist General Convention, Ohio Baptist Women's Convention, the Ohio Baptist Laymen, and the Ohio Baptist Young Adults recently held their eighty-eighth sessions in Dayton, Ohio, with Mt. Carmel Baptist as host and Rev. D.D. Ches-tang, host pastor.

They chose as their general theme: "The Mission, the Role and the Goal of the Christian Church in Modern Day Society."

Presidents of the organizations are: Dr. E. Theophilus Caviness, O.B.G.C.; Bernice Troy, O.B.W.C.; William Card, O.B.L.; Dr. T. Bradley, O.B.C.C.E.

According to records, the Ohio Baptist General Convention was constituted as a convention in 1897. In 1919, the organization became the Baptist General Association. They were incorporated as the Ohio Baptist General Convention under the guidance of Dr. George W. Lucas of Dayton, who was president at that time. The date was October 29, 1975.

Past presidents of the group were J.M. Riddle, Renville; A.M. Thomas, Zanesville; B.F. McWilliams, Toledo; C.H. Crable, Cleveland; W.A. Page, Cincinnati; J.W. Broadbush, Dayton; J.W. Parrish, Columbus; Leon L. Troy, Warren; George W. Lucas, Dayton.

Past presidents of the Women's Convention: G.E. Curry, Hattie E. Jackson, Sarah Johnson, Georgia Miller, Ednah L. Lewis, Lucile Pauley and Bernice Troy.

Past presidents of the Laymen's organization: Maurice Dugger, Helburn Meadows, Hycel B. Taylor, Sr., Odle Smith, James Martin, and Henry Thompson.

The Congress of Christian Education came into being as the result of the former Ohio State Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress led by C.A. Lee and Rev. G.J. Johnson respectively for many years.

In 1960, a new organizational structure resulted in the Congress of Christian Education with past presiding officers: Revs. J.J. Ashburn, W.D. Mosley and I.T. Bradley.

Highlights of the convention were: the convention musical and welcome program; the inspirational message by Rev. A.L. Mason, of Grace Baptist Church, Columbus, Ohio; the annual sermon by Pastor L. Venchael Booth of Zion Baptist, Cincinnati; a number of pastors putting emphasis on the need for the fund of perpetuity.

The time featured the director of music and the convention organist the showing of pictures of last year's convention by John A. Hindsman convention photographer; music by the choirs of Greater Abyssinia Baptist Church of Cleveland; the annual address by the president, E. Theophilus Caviness, for the Lay-Gause, moderator, Providence association; Kenneth Marsburg, western union association, and C.J. Murphy, Logan County Association.

The Inspirational Sermon by Pastor Luther Hill of Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio; young preachers of convention in charge of the third day were: Charles Noble, Bruce Carter, First Baptist, East-lington; Ernest Graves, Tabernacle Baptist, Dayton; and the president, E.T. Caviness.

During the Women's Sessions of the convention highlights were: Joan Cousins, Hossie Drummer, Edith Armour, Birdell Squire, Sarah Stoney, Rosa Marsburg. The message was delivered by Dr. F.G. Sampson of Detroit, Michigan; the presentation of the president's annual message by Bernice Troy.

The Fellowship banquet was held on Thursday of the sessions. Dr. Frederick G. Sampson, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist of Detroit, Michigan, was introduced by Pastor A.

Charles Bowles of East Mount Zion Baptist, Cleveland, Ohio; Rev. A.A. Womack of Mount Haven, Cleveland, was in charge of the rededication period. Mrs. Jimmie Pitts Caviness, of Cleveland, was soloist for the evening.

Installation of officers was also held on Thursday.

The Ohio Baptist Guild held its meeting on Friday; Marlene Wyatt, superintendent; association supervisors made reports: Virginia Cherry, Malinda Hamer, Barbara Scott, Mary Ann Wright, and Beulah Stovall; Guest speaker for the event was Rev. Keith Troy, Second Baptist of Columbus, Ohio; Devotional message for the Laymen was delivered by Pastor Luther C. Cooper of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Akron, Ohio.

Speakers and topics for the Christian Educational Hour were Dr. I.T. Bradley, Christ Memorial Baptist Church; topics: "The Laymen and Christian Mission," Pluma Thomas, Zion Baptist, Xenia; Allie Long Tabernacle Baptist Dayton; Joan Cousins, Zion Baptist, Chillicothe; Birdell Squires, Calvary Baptist, Toledo.

Memorial service was conducted by Vernon Young of New Hope Baptist, Hillsboro; and Milton Flowers of Pilgrim Baptist, Hamilton; guest speaker was Samuel N. Winston, pastor, Mt. Calvary Baptist in Dayton.

The young people were in charge of the Saturday program. Emphasis was on "Teaching our Leaders of Tomorrow for the Church of Today"; with the theme song: Loyalty to Christ. Theme for the Seminar Observe all Things," Rev. Alvin Jones, leader. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Stewart D. Smith, associate pastor, Bethany Baptist of Columbus, Ohio.

The young adults are known as the Young Davids. One of the prime objectives of the Convention is to articulate a philosophy of Christian higher education to college campuses, and churches where opportunity presents itself to undergird spiritually the Baptist young people on the campuses, support in all ways possible the Baptist colleges, universities, and seminaries, and encourage higher academic and spiritual standards for the ministry; to encourage development of acceptable church vocations for ministry and laity.

ity to "faith development." In a step related to the low estate in which they believe youths work is held today, many of the 300 persons attending the biennial conference of youth workers from the United States and Puerto Rico signed a petition at the end of the conference requesting the church's Board of Discipleship to make available for youth concerns more staff time than presently is projected in the reorganized board.

A Lutheran clergyman who is a research psychologist in family-related issues, appeared to hit a responsive chord with the group when he asserted there "is kind of a yawn at youth work" in the country.

Most of the Rev. Merton Strommen's address was devoted to patterns of family life in the country today, with some projections for the future as they relate to ministry with teen-agers.

"Today," Dr. Strommen said, "there is a new awareness of the power of a family as a social force," including both the good and bad aspects of such power. He also said two new types of family setting are moving in rapidly — one parent families and "reconstituted" families, the latter being those in which fragments of two families — left from divorce or death — come together.

The Lutheran researcher offered some guidelines for ministry with youth in the future, including emphasis during the 1980s being put on developing in youth "an image of what the family can be like through the power of Jesus Christ."

Black Artist And South Africa

In its efforts to prove to the world that its practice of apartheid is ameliorating, officials of South Africa have been booking black artists from the United States for concert tours.

This practice is resented by Azania People's Organization (AZAPO), a black civil rights body in South Africa.

Ray Charles was booked for a tour in South Africa, and despite efforts to dissuade him, he went to South Africa anyway.

His presence naturally angered the local black leadership. His Soweto concert was cancelled and three subsequent shows in the Johannesburg area were poorly attended. AZAPO has asked American blacks not to come to South Africa. Arthur Ashe and some other Americans have refused South African offers.

In view of what apartheid is doing to the black majority in South Africa, and, the part the South African government is playing in trying to perpetuate white rule in other African countries, the least black American artists can do, is to accept no engagements in South Africa. This is certainly the least black Americans can do for their African brothers.

Congratulations Bishop Pilla

The announcement of the elevation of the most Rev. Anthony Pilla, to position of Bishop of Cleveland, brought cheers from every segment of metropolitan Cleveland.

It is rare that a native son receives such great honors for service in his home town.

Born and educated in the Glenville area and greater Cleveland Colleges, Bishop Pilla brings to his office a knowledge of the people and community problems that should enable him to give his community the kind of leadership that's so badly needed here. His predecessor, Archbishop James A. Hickey, set an example and laid the foundation for Bishop Pilla's guidance.

As Cleveland struggles to correct its wrongs of the past and plots its future, Bishop Pilla can play an important part in the leadership needed for this task.

We congratulate Bishop Anthony M. Pilla and wish for him many years of fruitful service.

The Lessons Of November 1980

GERALD C. HORNE

lection returns show that Ronald Wilson Reagan will be replacing James Earl Carter as President. Carter, appropriately enough the only incumbent since Herbert Hoover in 1932 not to be re-elected suffered a stunning defeat.

Already the Monday morning quarterbacks are detecting a non-existent "swing to the right" and an increase in reaction and conservatism but this baldly overstates the case.

In retrospect, it was not difficult to predict that Carter would be whipped. His main issue against Reagan was the so-called "war and peace" issue.

So where does this leave the black community, one of the few cognizable constituencies that voted overwhelmingly for Carter. Indeed, urged on by such leaders as Coretta Scott King, Jesse Jackson, Andrew Young, Joseph Lowery of SCLC, John Johnson (publisher of Ebony-Jet), most of the Congressional Black Caucus, etc., in numerous black precincts the vote for Carter was 100%.

Now, in retrospect, it seems those who voted for Carter may have thrown their vote away. For (1) not only did their man lose but (2) they remain trapped on board a sinking Democratic Party ship. President-elect Reagan and the Democrats would pay more attention to politically independent blacks rather than those who act as if in any given election, there is no choice but to vote Democratic. In any event, if blacks are going to continue voting Democratic the least that can be done is to keep up the pressure so that the candidate's policies can remain "progressive" -- this was not done with Carter on the critical "war-peace" issue and he suffered a stinging loss, dragging down many of us with him.

So what does the Reagan victory mean? First of all, he received more than 50% of the popular vote. Though some have spoken of a massive voter turn-out, probably little more than half of the 160 million electorate bothered to vote.

This is a lesson for black Democrats as well. Those 40 million voters who stayed at home are disproportionately black and Hispanic and they will register and vote if and only if there are progressive candidates and issues involved -- note the anti-Rizzo campaign in Philadelphia where black voters flocked to the polls in droves. For those who feel that "progressivism" no longer strikes a chord with the white majority, note that a significant number of the Reagan voters queried when leaving the polls said their choice would have been Ted Kennedy -- not, say, Strom Thurmond. The same was true for the 13% George Wallace vote in 1968. These voters wanted "change" more so than conservatism.

The Great DuBois said in his 1906 Niagara address in an even darker era, "Courage, brothers" (and sisters). In that light, the National Black Assembly will be meeting this month in Philadelphia to act on the motion by Rev. Ben Chavis to form a new black political party. Rev. Chavis of the Wilmington 10 recognizes that blacks only began voting Democratic in -- you guessed it -- 1932. Before that, blacks refused to vote that way because of their being the main party of racism in the South.

Nothing is sacred, there are only permanent interests -- few permanent friends or enemies. With the growth of the Congressional Black Caucus (two entirely new members added) it is premature to speak of the death of Black Politics.

The Challenge Of Power

By DR. NATHAN WRIGHT
Guest Columnist

The challenge of power is not only for the use of black group solidarity in a variety of strategic ways.

The most rudimentary or basic power is economic. Herds of animals flock together by instinct to preserve and enhance their means of sustenance. When human groups fail, in the face of enduring needs, to use their common identity or their common needs for self-preservation and mutual gain, it may be said that their behavior falls short of even the most elemental instincts of the herd.

Regardless of the depth and intensity of the roadblocks placed before them -- or even because of the roadblocks --, black Americans must come quickly to unite as blacks to make at least their economic human group can preserve its humanity and permit its basic economic life or livelihood to be threatened or diminished.

Black Americans must come to know the tremendous power they have for self-protection and advancement when they represent a $100 billion annual market for the American business community. The annual black pocketbook contains more money than is spent in Canada and throughout the world by Canadians. Blacks have demonstrated on a local basis -- as in the sustained boycott in the mid-1960's in Philadelphia spearheaded by several hundred black ministers -- that economic solidarity can pay off with phenomenal rewards.

It is estimated that simply by selective buying nationally black Americans could drastically alter the entire American economy. The reasonable promise of this one possibility alone could bring about almost immediately most of the social, political and economic adjustments which have long been denied to black Americans. Money talks!

Reagan Picks Abernathy?

If any Ohio blacks are hankering for a job in the administration of president-elect Ronald Reagan, they'll have to clear it with the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of Atlanta, Ga.

This statement is being attributed to State Senator Donald (Buzz) Lukens, (R-Middletown) by statehouse sources. William O. Walker, who was chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Reagan, and who attended a high level conference in Washington last Tuesday, Nov. 18, along with Director Helen Evans and Wade Franklin, said there is no truth to Lukens' statement.

Ray Miller of Columbus who gave up his legislative lobbyist post for a labor union to accept a White House position last spring, was in the city last week trying to "line up" a job for himself when Reagan takes over the presidency Jan. 20.

Although Miller could apparently return to his union position or find a place on the staff of the Ohio House of Representatives, neither position offers salaries comparable to the check he pulled down at the White House, friends say.

As a result, Miller is said to be exploring the possibility of landing a position in the private sector. But if the private sector slams the door on him, it's a cinch the Black Elected Democrats of Ohio, of which its key officers are all members of the Legislature, will take care of him in the employment area.

Another Columbus White House Staffer who may prefer to remain on the banks of the Potomac rather than return to the shores of the Scioto River, is Ann B. Walker, who left her hometown last spring to become a Media Liaison to the White House.

A former Columbus television personality, Mrs. Walker and husband, Linwood, left their attractively furnished home empty and took up residence in the D.C. area. Based on this fact, it is logical to assume that the popular couple has no immediate plans to return to Columbus even though President Carter will no longer occupy the premises of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Incidentally, Mrs. Walker's White House appointment touched off an angry protest from black Democrats who regarded themselves as members of the President's inner circle. They claimed she had voted Republican last year and was recommended for the position by some one not affiliated with the regular black Carter Democrats.

Now that Republican President-elect Ronald Reagan will replace Carter in the Oval Office, perhaps the Republican taint will react in Mrs. Walker's favor. Of course, that is unlikely to happen, but in politics stranger things than that have happened.

President Carter, in the meantime, has partially confirmed a prediction made by former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young. Young, campaigning here several weeks ago, said Carter would not be hurt if he lost the election, "because all he'll do is retire to his peanut farm in Plains, Ga., write his memoirs and make a million in the process. But the blacks and poor whites will catch hell."

Well, President Carter told reporters last week that is exactly what he plans to do -- write his memoirs and nothing else after he leaves the White House. The only portion of Young's prediction missing was that the President made no reference to how the blacks or poor whites will fare while he does his writing.

Some Columbus blacks who went all out in support of the reelection of State Senator Michael Schwarzwald, Democrat, are viewing him through jaundiced eyes, since he played a leadership role in the coup that knocked a black State Senator out of a key position when the new senate terms begin in January.

Schwarzwald presided at a rump session of eight dissenting Democrats that elected a slate to replace M. Morris Jackson as the assistant senate minority leader next year. Jackson, who served as president pro tempore during the past four years, was due to be demoted to the minority post as a result of the Democrats losing control of the Senate 18 to 15 at the Nov. 4 election.

Schwarzwald contends that removing the Senate President Oliver Ocasek of Northfield from office was in the best interest of the party, and of course, that couldn't be done without unseating Jackson too.

Whether Columbus blacks will buy Schwarzwald's argument or not, only time will tell.

The Reagan Landslide

The morning-after shock effects of the Reagan landslide are beginning to fade away, and a more realistic attitude is being taken by many people who fear the worst from a self-proclaimed conservative Administration.

The Reagan campaign rhetoric -- "let's get government off the backs of the people, etc." -- led many to fear a wholesale dismantling of social programs and a rollback of civil rights measures come next January.

But there's a big difference between campaign rhetoric and the reality of governing a large, pluralistic nation in which the judiciary, the Congress and permanent civil servants all serve as brakes on even the most ideologically-oriented president.

And there is considerable evidence that Mr. Reagan is more pragmatic than his reputation leads people to believe. It's not unusual for presidents to adopt a right-wing or left-wing rhetorical stance while actually running a middle-of-the-road administration.

Clearly, a Reagan presidency will have a strong tilt to the right, as did Nixon's. But all presidents move to the center after they are elected, and the hard realities of governing mean they are largely unable to touch the vital core interests of major interest groups.

The courts will continue to stand as bulwarks against erosion of black constitutional rights -- even a conservative Supreme Court backed affirmative action in the Weber and Fullilove cases.

And the coalitions that splintered during the Carter Administration because of competition for influence with a friendly president, will regroup and strengthen in the coming months. Such coalitions are always more united when defending basic interests.

Every president-elect enjoys a honeymoon period, especially when he comes to office in an electoral victory of such massive proportions. It makes sense to suspend judgment until Mr. Reagan announces his major appointments and the basic program he intends to carry out in the first months of his presidency.

In his August speech to the National Urban League, candidate Reagan came out strongly for urban revitalization, welfare for the truly needy, equal opportunity and "jobs, jobs, jobs." And he promised not to fight national problems "on the backs of the poor" -- a clear pledge not to induce recession to right inflation.

Now all of that may be filed under campaign rhetoric, but I suggest we take those words at their face value, continually remind Mr. Reagan of them, and keep up the pressure on him to live up to them.

About the only really new proposal to fight poverty that came up in the campaign was Mr. Reagan's plan for urban "enterprise zones" in poverty areas. Such zones would get federal and local incentives for job-creating business development.

But despite such hopeful signs there is still reason to doubt that Mr. Reagan fully understands the importance of an activist federal role in dealing with problems of poverty, unemployment and the cities.

And there is a perception among many blacks and whites that a Reagan presidency will be hostile to blacks. That is dangerous because it may lead to further despair and alienation among blacks even before a Reagan Administration compiles the record to either justify or refute it.

And it is dangerous because it may encourage some people to think that civil rights laws and affirmative action program won't be enforced. Any corporate executives who really believe they can slow down their affirmative action programs should remember that the courts have a strong record of support for such programs, and violations could be costly.

But that troubling perception about a Reagan Administration's potential hostility toward blacks, minorities and the poor should be dispelled at once. Only president-elect Reagan can do that.

I suggest first, that he meet with black leadership and establish lines of communication for black input into major policy decisions affecting blacks. Second, he should plan an early statement reaffirming his support for civil rights and black progress.

Prospective On The Eighties

By Dr. Charles Henry
Denison University

"Clear and Present Danger"

The landslide victory of President-elect Ronald Reagan clearly signals a shift to the right in this country's domestic and foreign policy. However, black folks survived under Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford and should do so under a Reagan Administration. A few blacks have even profited from Republican administrations.

The greatest cause for concern arising out of November's election is the sweeping victories of right-wing Republicans in Congress. In the House of Representatives, Republicans gained 32 seats and defeated several liberal members like majority whip John Brademas, Ways and Means chairman Al Ullman, and Robert Eckhardt, chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee on oversight and investigation.

Liberal Democrats in the Senate suffered the greatest defeat. Gone are such nationally known figures as George McGovern, Birch Bayh, Frank Church and others. Walter Mondale will fade from view and liberal Republican Jacob Javits will not be returning. Yet the real power switch involves the Republicans gaining the majority in the Senate. This means that Republicans will now control all Senate committees and subcommittees.

Most significant is the change that will occur on the Judiciary Committee where Strom Thurmond will replace Ted Kennedy as chairman. This Committee, which controls legal codes and judicial appointments, will be in the hands of a once ardent segregationist. Thurmond came to national prominence as the Dixiecrat candidate for president in 1948. He only changed his overtly segregationist activities when blacks in his home state of South Carolina got the right to vote through the Voting Rights Act of 1965 (which he bitterly opposed).

Another major shift in ideology will occur when Senator Barry Goldwater replaces Birch Bayh as chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence which "controls" our nation's spying activities. Other ultra-conservatives assuming important committee posts are Jake Garn (Banking), Jesse Helms (Agriculture), John Tower (Armed Services), Robert Dole (Finance) and James McClure (Energy).

Thus, the real danger of the next four years is that the Congress will not be in a position to check the excesses of the President as it has done in previous Republican administrations. In fact, the Senate may prod Reagan even further to the right. Moreover, the chances of changing the balance in the Senate are not good in the short run. The next congressional election will find 20 Democratic senators up for re-election, as against 12 Republicans.

Civil Rights Update

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION

The Albuquerque Police Department has begun using a new examination for testing recruit candidates which is designed to measure skills directly related to police work.

The previous examination used by the department, the Otis-Lennon Mental Ability Test, was criticized as being racially and culturally biased.

When that test was used, 65% of minority men and 77% of minority women failed it, while 70% of Anglo males passed it.

CITY BIAS: The Civil Rights Division of the Office of Revenue Sharing has charged the city of Wrightsville, Ga., with deliberately discriminating against blacks in local government jobs, and with generally offering the black community inferior services.

City officials have 15 days to respond to the charges, and 30 days to submit corrective plans before $44,000 in revenue sharing funds is suspended.

The city is one of 21 local governments in middle and south Georgia being scrutinized by the agency.

BANQUET KEYNOTER — Ronald P. Laurent, president, Government National Mortgage Association (HUD), Washington, D.C., is shown here reminiscing a bit during his featured address before the banqueters attending the Columbus Urban League's annual "Equal Opportunity Day" dinner and awards program held at Hilton Inn-Columbus on Wednesday, Nov. 19. Joining Laurent at the speaker's table were James E. Bowman, League board chairman and Syl Angel, Ohio Area Manager, HUD.

CITED FOR SERVICE — Tom Fullove, the outgoing president of the Columbus branch NAACP, was honored by the Columbus Urban League for his many and distinguished contributions as head of the local civil rights organization. observance held Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 19-20, included the release of a special investigative report on the economic conditions of local blacks and the awarding of citations to deserving community leaders for their work in the advancement of race relations.

Following two days of seminars addressing the controversial issue of affirmative action and the traditional "Equal Opportunity Day" (EOD) awards dinner, the League in conjunction with Dr. Gwendolyn C. Gilbert, vice president and chief research person for the Center for Leadership and Change, released grim findings of a one-year study of the social and economic plight of the city's black community during the past decade.

A serious indictment of the failure of both the white and black leadership of Columbus to advance race relations during the period surveyed, "The State of Black Columbus, 1980," revealed the continuing inequality of opportunity faced by black men, women and children in the critical areas of employment, housing, education, criminal justice and social services.

The results of the study, along with dozens of recommendations to the policy-makers of the community will be used to chart the future course of economic and social events which impact heavily on the welfare of blacks, Frank Lomax III, League president said.

The primary purpose of the seminars was to show how affirmative action can work in housing, education, employment, human services and economic development, EOD Planning Committee chairman and 2nd vice chairman of the League's Board of Directors, Dave Harris said. "More importantly, the experts participating in the seminars instructed us on what to do when one is the victim of unlawful discrimination," Harris, an equal opportunity officer with Turner Construction Co., added.

The other EOD Planning Committee members were: Michael Badal, Region V, Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD); Lela Boykin, Neighborhood House; the honorable Les Brown, Ohio House of Representatives; Pam Conrad, Ohio Medical Indemnity; Charles Kendrix, Western Electric; Bob May, Ohio Bell; Alex Shumate, office of the attorney general, state of Ohio; Benjamin D. McKeel, WCMH-TV4; Glenn Watson, Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) and Bob Wade, Columbus Urban League.

Co-sponsored by the Columbus Urban League and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the featured speakers for the two-day event included: William J. Brown, attorney general of Ohio; Ronald P. Laurent, president, Government National Mortgage Association (HUD); Loucine Watson, director, Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity; Chicago Regional Office, HUD; Franklin B. Walter, Ph.D., superintendent, Public Instruction, State of Ohio; Syl Angel, Ohio Area manager, HUD and Robert D. Brown, executive director, Ohio Civil Rights Commission.

Each year as a special feature of "Equal Opportunity Day," the League selects a particular corporation and individual who have best exemplified the principles of brotherhood and equal opportunity throughout the years.

The 1980 citations were presented during the annual awards dinner Wednesday to Thomas T. Fullove, outgoing president of the Columbus branch NAACP and the staff of the Central Ohio District United Parcel Service.

Fullove was praised for quadrupling local NAACP membership during his tenure of office. In addition, the citation read in part: "Thomas T. Fullove has distinguished himself by his display of total

With the conviction of several key officers, the International Union moved in and put Local 423 under trusteeship. The Local remained under the stewardship of a trustee until the International Union was forced to allow 423 to elect its own officers.

A suit filed in the U.S. District Court requesting that the trusteeship be lifted, was resolved when the International and the U.S. Department of Labor agreed to hold the election. As a result, Fred Boffman was elected Business Manager, Robert White President and Churchill Secretary-Treasurer, the key officers of the local.

Opponent Charges Brown With Election Fraud

Conrade Hinds, who on Nov. 4 lost his bid for election to the 29th House District seat to State Rep. Les Brown, filed a suit in Franklin County Common Pleas Court charging him with election fraud.

According to Hinds,

LES BROWN ...denies charges

CONRADE HINDS ...charges fraud

dence," Hinds said.

Hinds also charged that Brown failed to list two properties he owns, one at 1763 E. Main and the other at 1065 Ellsworth Ave., on his 1979 financial disclosure statement.

The state law requires annual listings of property owned by public officials excepted being their personal or residential property.

Brown called the allegations silly and maintained that 3211 Hudson is his official residence.

AN AWARD OF DISTINCTION - Bob Forman, center left, accepts the Columbus Urban League's coveted "Equal Opportunity Day" award from Dr. David Hamlar, a former recipient during the annual awards dinner held Wednesday, Nov. 19 at Hilton Inn-Columbus. Forman, an employment manager, accepted the honor on behalf of his company, Central Ohio District United Parcel Service. Each year the Urban League recognizes a particular group and individual who has best exemplified the meaning of brotherhood in the advancement of race relations in the community.

Laurent charged. "Equal Opportunity Day" was inaugurated Monday, Nov. 19, 1956, and was timed to coincide with the 93rd anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. For the League the day is one to focus attention throughout the United States on positive efforts to insure fair and equal treatment of all citizens, regardless of race, color, religion or national origin, and to remind Americans from all walks of life that the greatness of our country rests upon the principle of equal opportunity for all.

"Equal Opportunity Day" is not only a call for continued commitment to the democratic ideals that shaped this nation, but is also a salute to all people who work year-round expanding opportunities for those unjustifiably denied them," League president Lomax observed.

Taking From The Poor

The state of Ohio dishes out a dole to black folks, but manages to get it back by the numerous way-side stations for the lottery.

Concessions for the sale of lottery tickets have sprung up in grocery stores, taverns and every cubby hole imaginable.

It is a big fake, but it does the same thing that it did years ago when prohibition died. Black folks, who are some of the biggest gamblers, also have kept the state rich through sales of liquor.

Now the gambling booths are not private ventures, but are the state suffering a game of chance. To make it look more legal and lawful, the money-take agent is sequestered from the rest of the business in a closed in booth, making it look mighty legitimate.

No vice squad boys harass those lottery stations. They are state properties and everything is so legal. There was a day when the vice squad was pronto in making arrest for displaying gambling paraphernalia, but not those lottery booths.

What does it all mean? It definitely exposes the idea that black people are some of the most prolific gamblers and drinkers. In 1939 the state put up two liquor stores in the Near Eastside, less than a mile apart, for us black folks.

Now the state has flooded the same area with lottery ticket outlet booths everywhere. There are businesses, though, that don't go for that stuff.

It is to be noted that proprietors, who allow booths on premises, get a pay for the accommodation. There has to be some place for sales, and the state lottery sprang up so suddenly that there has not been time to build state stores for sales.

It is a fair business deal any way you look at it, except there is such a host of sales booths in our black district with such a skimpy number among white folks' neighborhoods.

It is not a slam on a race, or maybe it is an expose of the white man's notion of black people's character traits: some are gambling addicts. Now there can be no objection to the black people trying to make ends meet. But back to the thought that the state is getting back some of that dole money. Folks will take a chance in trying to get more.

It may seem like a far cry from Old Reliable Days, the busiest corner of the Near Eastside being at Long and Australia Sts., the big upstairs operations, bags of pennies and nickels and dumped into barrels, rows of 20 young ladies counting out the pennies and packaging them, and a little later everyone wanting to know what the stock finale read in numbers.

How they waited for that stock finale. It was merely the last three numbers of New York stock exchange records for the day, but all those barrels of money rode on it. Some pennies won and provided food for the day, nickels won and bought, more than groceries, and then dollars were laid down on a number and bought a car.

Police were ever busy in a driving effort to clean up gambling in Columbus. It must be noted that the black area was the point of concentration of effort. It is all gone, for the state has gotten into the act and people are playing.

The stock final figures were juggled now and then by the police sometimes. Crooked? If so, any more so than the table tennis ball fixing heard of recently in lucky number drawings? While there has been strong inference of fraud in lucky number drawings through the years.

THE BEATTY FAMILY

TO: ALL MY FRIENDS AND CONSTITUENTS

As we pause this Thanksgiving to count our many blessings, my family and I would like to express our profound gratitude to all the good citizens of Columbus who so ably supported my campaign to keep my seat in the General Assembly as Democratic State Representative from Ohio House District 31.

Your vote of confidence and trust Nov. 4th was greatly appreciated. I am now looking forward to the next two challenging years, which I believe, with your continued support and input, will come to represent banner years of health, happiness and prosperity for all.

Again, we say 'thanks' for your friendship and loyalty.

May you celebrate the approaching holiday season in the warm and loving embrace of your families.

League Staffer Paves Way For OJT Trainees

Tho' she probably never imagines herself a trail blazer that's what Milly Crowler is nonetheless.

Starting in 1965 as the pleasant voice on the other end of the line, as secretary for the On-The-Job Training (OJT) Program of the Columbus Urban League, the Atlanta native and former Cleveland resident was ear-to-ear five days a week taking, screening and placing telephone calls to and from the local business community and the out of work labor force.

In January 1979, Mrs. Crowler was promoted to her present job that of personnel representative supervisor with OJT, a move which League officials felt to be "richly deserved."

"Advancement from within the organization, like Milly's," observed one official, "is not only a great morale booster but a clear message to every staff member working here which says 'if they've got the stuff we're looking for, the job can be theirs.'"

As one of four supervisors, Mrs. Crowler is responsible for screening and placing CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) applicants seeking jobs.

"If, following an intensive interview, thorough background record checks, an applicant is judged capable of filling a particular job order, we send him or her

EXPLAINS WORK-Milly Crowler, personnel representative supervisor, On-The-Job Training (OJT) Program of the Columbus Urban League, lists her responsibilities as screener and placer of CETA applicants seeking work through the service. Mrs. Crowler has been supervisor since her promotion in 1979. Before that she worked as secretary with OJT.

on to the final interview with the prospective employer," she explained, stressing, "we have no control over who finally gets hired."

Last year in its 14th year of community service, the OJT Program tallied 157 placements, exceeding its projected goal by seven. In addition, 82 percent of those placed succeeded in sticking with their new bosses.

Sharing the awesome responsibility of finding suitable employment for the ever-growing numbers of out of work residents are supervisors: Barbara Powell, Dorothy Bailey and Phyllis Martin.

Before joining her co-workers at the League, Mrs. Crowler reared a family (a son and daughter) in Cleveland, where she also worked as a legal secretary to judges and lawyers.

Her educational background includes studies at the Ohio State University, Bliss College and Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

More important, however, than personal success and accomplishment is the fact that Mrs. Crowler recently became a proud, new grandmother.

BY THE WAY...

By Joe Black

Black Americans can tell you about the great athletic feats of Joe Louis, "Sugar Ray" Robinson, Muhammad Ali, Jesse Owens, Wilma Rudolph, Jackie Robinson, Jim Gilliam, Roy Campanella, Willie Mays, O. J. Simpson, Gayle Sayers, Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell, and Elvin Hays. But despite their apparent enthusiasm and understanding about the various athletic games, Black people don't seem to be able to grasp or recognize the games that society attempts to play on us. It seems as though we are so busy looking for reasons to shout "Racism" that we fail to see the subtle ways in which we are held back.

Some of you are probably asking what the heck is Joe Black talking about now? The answer is simple... Black English. Sure, I realize that some young people who don't want to study will claim that there is a Black language; and all of those do-gooders, Black and White, who have written books about so-called Black English will attest to the fact that Black English is a legitimate communication tool. It is time for Black people to wake up to this rip-off. Don't you realize that much of our unemployment and underemployment is the result of Black Americans not being able to communicate with other facets of society? A profitable Black business is not going to hire anyone who says: "We is selling" or "We be doing it."

My friends, we say "Axe" instead of ask; "Poke" instead of pork; and fail to conjugate verbs because we didn't and don't want to pay the price in a classroom. Other ethnic groups can migrate to this land and learn to speak English within five years; but there are those who are trying to make us Black people believe that although we have been in this country since 1619, we don't have the ability to learn the English language. Of course, the immigrants retain their native language and speak English with a dialect, but Black Americans' native tongue would be an African language. Our parents and forefathers failed to speak correctly because they were denied educational opportunities. What is your excuse... mental inferiority, or are you a victim of the "Super-coon" myth?

Stimulating Reception Welcomes New Physicians To Capital City

The Columbus Auxiliary to the National Medical Association Inc. recently hosted a successful, sumptuous socially stimulating reception for new physicians on the Columbus scene at the Governor's Mansion in Bexley.

A well received scientific presentation on preventive medicine was presented by the Merk, Sharp and Dome pharmaceutical representatives of Central Ohio.

The evening was highlighted by the presentation of the affiliate charter to the auxiliary, presented to Mrs. Minnette Cooper, president, Queen City ANMA of Cincinnati.

Eight Queen City Auxiliaries traveled to Columbus to enjoy the evening of fellowship with the Columbus group. Mrs. William (Sonja) Bronson, president of Columbus Chapter ANMA, and Mrs. Jaime (Anne N.) Smith-e-Incas, vice president of Region IV of the ANMA, were co-chairpersons of the event.

Members of the NMA and ANMA enjoying the informative and festive evening were Drs. and Mesdames Wilbur Blount, Thomas Brewer, William Bronson, Paul Fletcher, William Hicks, James Lipscomb, Julian Robinson, John Rosemond, Jaime Smith-e-Incas, and Mesdames Carl Barnett and Keith Woodroffe.

Members not able to attend were Drs. and Mesdames Arthur Clark, Alfred Jefferson, Ernest Newkirk, Douglas Scott, Walter Thomas, Watson Walker, Wilburn Weddington and Wiley Woodard.

'Elegants' Host Smashing Fall Shindig At Beautiful Walnut Hills Party House

The Elegants scored another big hit with their friends when they hosted their annual Oktoberfest Cocktail Party at Walnut Hills Party House. The party is a tradition with The Elegants who continuously please their friends.

Evelyn Manuel came up with the idea of an Oktoberfest a few years back. She observed this delightful custom when she and her husband, Dr. Robert Manuel were in Germany. Of course, The Elegants cocktail party is more elite than the boisterous and rowdy celebration we attended at the ancient Hofbrauhaus in Munich, Germany. The Elegants party was dressy. Partygoers nibbled on hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and sipped the cocktail of their choice while a band played their kind of music. At Hofbrauhaus, the patrons drink a lot of beer and the music is anything but disco.

Even though the music was good, the dance floor was not as crowded as it would have been, had it been located in the center of the party room. Couples like Elsie White and Sylvester Sowell who took to the dance floor almost immediately had their friends as an audience.

At times Elsie and Sylvester looked as if they were creating a new disco step and their spouses and friends loved it. It looked that way because Elsie was wearing a beautiful high fashion designer blouse that tended to gap open in the wrong place when she boogied. Elsie's modesty took over and in perfect time to the music she patted her bosom to keep her blouse closed. While Elsie was fighting the battle of the blouse, her dance partner, Sylvester, who is a big tease, pretended he wasn't looking. He put his hand up to his face, but he positioned his fingers so he could see. It was a cute and amusing scene. At one time during the evening, several of The Elegants formed a line and entertained their guests by doing precision disco steps.

It was a delightful evening and Margaret Richardson, chairman of the Oktoberfest Cocktail Party and her committee members, Delphine Howard, Jean Hamilton and Evelyn Manuel, have reason to be pleased.

Those invited to The Elegants party were Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. William Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crable, Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. John White, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bland, Jeff Barker, Ted Hale.

Others invited were Dr. and Mrs. Jaime Smith-e-Incas, Mr. and Mrs. John Turner, Mrs. Roberta Barnett, Mrs. Catherine Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Shep Edmondson, Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Frazier Ross, Ms. Elizabeth Penman, Mrs.

Macolma Sutherland, Mrs. Gwen Dugger, Charles Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Watson, Yvonne Bolte, Luther Byrd, William Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cherry, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCreary, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Don

Members of The Elegants Club and their husbands are Viola and Paul Greene, Robbie and Robert Cromwell, Rose and Charles Starks, Dorothy and

atly. Napoleon Bell, Charles and Catherine Starks, Evelyn and atly. Janet Jackson Appointed To New Civil Rights Post

Attorney General William J. Brown has named 27-year-old Janet Jackson to the post of Assistant Section Chief of the Civil Rights Legal Section.

The Civil Rights Section provides legal representation to the Ohio Civil Rights Commission which investigates complaints and seeks remedial action in cases of discrimination based on sex, race, color, religion, national origin, age or physical handicap. Ms. Jackson will assume administrative duties and policy responsibilities in connection with her new position.

Ms. Jackson has been an Assistant Attorney General since she joined the office in August of 1978 after receiving her Juris Doctorate from the National Law Center at George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

While attending law school, she was active in the Black American Law Students Association. Her activism continues today as she devotes much of her time to urging blacks and women to seek policy making positions within their chosen professions. "As an attorney for the State of Ohio and specifically for the Ohio Civil Rights Commission, I am here to make sure that people's rights are protected," said Ms. Jackson.

"I think I can best do that not only as an Assistant Attorney General but also as an educator who believes in teaching citizens about the law and how it works to prevent sexual harassment and discrimination and to provide an equal opportunity for all regardless of race, sex, age, creed or physical handicap."

Janet Jackson brings drive coupled with idealism to her new position. I am confident she will provide the kind of legal representation that removes unnecessary barriers to personal and professional achievement," said Attorney General Brown. "I am pleased to have Ms. Jackson in an executive level position with the office."

Ms. Jackson, a native of Charlotte County, Virginia, was graduated from Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio in 1975. She is single. Ms. Jackson is an active member of the Coalition for Political Education, the Second Baptist Church.

PROMOTED: Atty. General William J. Brown recently named Janet Jackson to the post of Assistant Section Chief of the Civil Rights Legal Section.

Trip May Spur Business For Development Chiefs

A recent development trip to the Detroit area produced 18 prospects for Ohio business and manufacturing facilities, assistant state development director Bennett J. Cooper has revealed.

Ten of the prospects are classified as immediate, meaning the companies plan new construction or the expansion of an existing facility within six months to a year. The remaining eight are considered long-range industrial prospects.

During the week of November 3, six two-man development teams called on 140 companies in the Detroit-southern Michigan area. "The trip gave state development department personnel and members of the Ohio Economic Development Council a chance to call on corporate decision-makers and tell them about the advantages of Ohio, encouraging them to locate new or expanding facilities here," Cooper explained.

The next major development trip is to California in March, Cooper said.

Advent Community Church Will Observe Anniversary

The Rev. Dr. Irvin Moxley, associate for Ethnic Church Affairs at the Synod of the United Presbyterian Church of America, will speak at 11 a.m. services Sunday to commemorate the fourth anniversary of Advent Community Church, 2706 Crossroads Plaza Dr. He will preach from the subject, "The Church With Imagination."

Dr. Moxley, who, at an earlier stage of his career was an organizing pastor of a new church start like Advent, can give the people at Advent first hand information about new church development in that he organized the Peace Presbyterian Church, Louisville, Ky., said Pastor Samuel L. Varner.

In his nearly 21 years in the ministry, Dr. Moxley has found himself in continuous confrontation with political, economic and educational structures in a struggle against racism. "A personal commitment to right wrongs carries you to strange places," he admitted wryly, "but you deal with situations as they come; you don't go looking for them."

Dr. Moxley has had ample opportunity to translate his own commitment into action in his career first as organizing pastor of Peace Presbyterian Church, Louisville, a small, then integrated, urban congregation; then as Executive Director of Louisville's Presbyterian Community Center, a multipurpose social agency addressing issues such as child care, sanitation, housing and tenant concerns, voter registration and cultural enrichment; and now as staff resource for the Cabinet on Ethnic Church Affairs.

A 1955 graduate of the University of Louisville, Moxley also holds a Doctor of Ministries degree from Louisville Presbyterian sign the bill or permit it to become a law without his signature."

Although Rhodes has indicated that he favors a tax increase to shore up the states' strained budget, Bowen said he seriously doubts that he would veto the measure if forwarded to him by the legislators.

Pointing out that minority businesses have had difficulty for years in gaining access to any form of government contracts, Bowen also noted that many of these businesses have had problems meeting bonding requirements in raising working capital.

In addition to a five percent set aside of the total estimated value of state construction contracts for bids by minority businesses, Bowen said the bill creates a Minority Development Financing Advisory Board to grant loans to minority firms experiencing difficulty in obtaining loans from other sources. The bill further provides for assistance for minority businesses being issued much-needed, "but often hard-to-come by, construction bonds."

To qualify for these loans, bonds and set aside program, each business must be certified as a minority enterprise, Bowen explained.

The Minority Business Development Division of the Department of Economic and Community Development and the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinator of the Department of Administrative Service, will review and certify each minority business to insure that only "bona fide" minority businesses benefit from these programs, Bowen said.

Father Of Slain Youth

Bennie Kendrick ran from the home, and apparently not knowing that Johnson was hiding in the basement, thought Kevin and his Dad were trying to break into his home.

After spotting Kevin at the side of the house, a confrontation ensued. Kendrick shot Kevin in the back, then he turned the weapon on Clifford and shot him in the leg, police said.

An unidentified motorist spotted Kevin as he drove past. He took the youth to Grant Hospital where he died at 8:45 p.m., police said.

Clifford was also taken to Grant Hospital, treated and released, police said.

Police said they questioned Kendrick but did not arrest him. But in the meantime, police said Johnson and his sister were found in the basement of Kendrick's home, arrested and charged with aggravated robbery.

Clifford, commenting on Kendrick's statement in his home Monday, said, "I feel real lousy about it. I cannot buy his story because I definitely believe he (Kendrick) knew that man was hiding in his house," Foster said.

Although Foster said

Homicide detectives have said they will discuss the tragedy with him further after Kevin's funeral, he said "I plan to conduct my own investigation."

Kendrick, while being questioned by police, consented for them to search his home. He reportedly said he was shocked when police found Johnson hiding under a piece of plastic in the basement. He did not know Johnson's sister, whom he said is known by Phyllis Barnett, his girlfriend.

Police said no charges were filed against Kendrick, instead, the evidence will be presented to the Franklin County grand jury for review and possible indictment, officers said.

Kevin, who attended South High School and worked for Franklin County under the CETA program, resided with his parents, Clifford and Joanne Foster. Other survivors include daughter, Shawnta Foster, sister, Javette Foster, brother, Miguel Foster and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were Tuesday at Crosby Funeral Home, with Rev. Dandy Dunlap officiating. Interment followed in Glen Rest Memorial Estate.

GOOD MORNING JUDGE

With the Thanksgiving Holiday being observed Thursday, the Municipal Court docket will be crammed with felony and misdemeanor cases for Wednesday's court proceeding. One defendant docketed to answer a felony proceeding is 22 year old Edward J. Branton, 1564 Republic Ave., who is charged with aggravated menacing. He is accused of knowingly causing Cathy Rolack of the Republic Ave. address to believe he would cause her serious physical harm by shooting at her on Nov. 15. The case was docketed for trial after Branton answered a summons issued by the court.

In the misdemeanor category, Hannah L. Rocker, 38, of 1508 Kenmore Rd., is slated to face a petty theft offense. She is accused of swiping two sheets, a clock radio and four scarfs from the J.C. Penney. She pleaded not guilty and the trial was continued to Wednesday when she was advised to appear with an attorney to represent her. A $53 cash bond was posted for her release.

While several defendants will be facing the court for disposition of cases, Wednesday will also be due bill date for several who had already had their day in court. George S. IBE Bassey, 29 of 104 E. 15th Ave., is scheduled to pay $200 on a $300 fine imposed upon him on a prostitution-related charge. According to court records, Bassey, who was initially charged with soliciting for prostitution, but was convicted on an attempt soliciting offense. The court gave him a 30-day suspended sentence and a $300 fine. Two hundred dollars of the fine was knocked off and Bassey was placed on a one year non-reporting probation. Enforcement of the fine was stayed to Nov. 26 by the court.

Michael J. Moore, 24, 1758 E. Long St., Apt. F., was also scheduled to pick up a $200 due bill and begin a 90-day term in the Franklin County Jail. The court however, extended the enforcement date to Dec. 26.

Moore, according to an affidavit, was fined $200 and costs and given 90 days after pleading guilty to dropping a $50 bad check on Lazarus Dec. 15, 1979.

For allegedly breaking into the Business Trailer of Capital City Motor Co., 611 W. Broad St., 18 year old Joseph G. Puckett, 638 Kerr St., is slated for a hearing on a breaking and entering offense. He was released on a recognizance (recog) bond.

Also docketed for a hearing on a B&E charge is 18 year old Terry V. Simpson, 265 Hosack St. He is charged with breaking into the Gateway Super Market at 366 Reeb Ave., on Nov. 13. He was also allowed to remain free on a recog bond.

How Does Ryan Do It?

Lots of people, including other builders, wonder how Ryan can give you so much home and so much value for your money.

It's no secret.

Our "magic formula" is just plain good sense, combined with careful planning. In nearly 30 years of building homes, we've learned what people need and what they like. And we've kept up with those trends. Because they keep changing.

Our system works.

Ryan's way of building extra value into every home begins with a "systems" approach that virtually "programs" everything you want into our extensive line of models. Our system of buying land and materials, and our way of making every bit of space count, makes the system work. We build many different models incorporating dozens of options to suit your taste. Ranches, bi-levels, split-levels and two-story homes. And we never skimp on quality.

You get the advantage.

Because of everything we've done in past years—and what we keep doing—you can buy a new Ryan home generally priced several thousand dollars less than other homes of comparable size, in comparable locations. So you get more home for your money. What's more, every Ryan home is super-sealed our special way to save energy—and save you even more money. Why not talk with us soon? We'll show you exactly how we do it.

SKATE RE-OPENING - Big Bob Naneley, center, radio personality for WNCI, hands out records to some of the 1,300 skaters at United Skates of America's re-grand opening. The rink's new gray and black color scheme accented by mirror and chrome reflects a move to the 1980s.

United Skates Remodels Rink
Over 1300 roller skaters turned out recently for the official re-grand opening of United Skates of America North at 4900 Evanswood Dr. The roller skating center was celebrating a new look.
A modern color scheme of blacks and grays accented by mirrors and chrome is replacing United Skates' old reds and blues. "It's the look of the 1980's," said United Skates President Norman Traeger. "We've always been trend setters in the roller skating industry."
Columbus North was chosen for renovation, he said, because it skated more customers than any other roller skating rink in the city. "Eventually, all 27 United Skates rinks across the country will reflect the new image," Traeger said. "Columbus North is one of the first."
The official re-grand opening included guest appearances from Michael O'Malley and Big Bog Naneley, WNCI Stereo 98 radio personalities. They were on hand to give away free albums, tee-shirts and backpacks to United Skates' guests.
United Skates of America is the world's largest chain of roller rinks.

Choreographer Pays Tribute To Music Of Duke Ellington

Bob Johnson, a noted choreographer who directs a dance ensemble in Pittsburgh, has put together a new dance performance in tribute to Duke Ellington that will debut here.

For the past several weeks, Johnson has been working with the Kuumba Na Nia Dance Theatre Troupe on "Afro-Eurasian Eclipse," an original dance piece which will be performed Dec. 5-7 at East High School, 1500 E. Broad St.

"Black dance has the ability to cover a wide range of music and life style of black Americans," said Johnson in explaining how he arrived at a dance production with Ellington's music. "It accompanies the blues, gospel and jazz of people who are Americans with African roots. Black dance companies should not be abstract to ignore the culture it comes from."

Johnson, director of the Black Theatre Dance Ensemble Corp. of Pittsburgh, is making his second appearance as a choreographer with Kuumba Na Nia, who are managed by Gwen Gardner. He is also an assistant instructor at the University of Pittsburgh and as a choreographer has toured in Nigeria, Europe and parts of the United States.

Johnson said the Ellington tribute will show the interrelated culture that extends from Europe and Africa to America. "It's not difficult because black American people can interpret other people's cultures because of our diverse images," he said. "Black dance troupes should reflect the past, present and future of black people, and that can be a commonness which can ensure permanent and positive direction for the race."

The performance will be 7:30 p.m. Dec. 5 and 6 and 4 p.m. Dec. 7. Tickets are $3. Stephanie Bland and Free Enterprise will be local guest artist.

Netter, who has a 20-3 record, will meet Dale Gordon of Weston, W. Va. in the main event in a scheduled eight-rounder. In the semi-final bout, Eddie "Rocky" Temple of Columbus will meet Randall Jackson of Columbus.

In other four round matches, Darnell Hayes of Columbus will take on Randy Smallridge of West Virginia; Kevin Straughter of Columbus will meet William Hodge; Greg Harper will meet Dan McCartney, and Frank Turner will take on Junie Johnson.

Tailback Gregory Williams was one of 22 juniors to receive a varsity football letter at St. Francis DeSales Annual Football Banquet. Williams is one of the fastest members of the team and was the starting tailback for the first four games this year.

Williams injured his ankle and was hampered the second half of the season. Reportedly, several college recruiters are eyeing the 5-foot-11 Williams, who is also on the track team.

The Ohio State-Penn State matchup in the Fiesta Bowl from Tempe, Ariz., on Dec. 26, will be carried locally on WCMH-TV4. The NBC network will broadcast the game live beginning at 3 p.m.

The City League basketball season is underway and all the teams will be in action this week. On Wednesday night, Nov. 26, Briggs will be at East; Centennial hosts Eastmoor; Brookhaven is home for West; Marion-Franklin visits Linden-McKinley; Central will be at Mifflin; Beechcroft hosts South; Walnut Ridge is at Whetstone; and Northland plays at DeSales. West will be at Zanesville on Friday nights.

On Saturday night, Centennial, Central, Linden-

McKinley, Marion-Franklin, Northland and Walnut Ridge all will be in action against non-league opponents. All teams will face league opposition next Tuesday except Central, hosting Dayton Fairview, and Brookhaven, not playing.

The Federation of Professional Athletes says that job security and elimination of racial discrimination in the National Football League are top goals of the 1,500 players-union. Ed Garvey, union president, reported that a recent study makes it clear that a pattern of racial discrimination in the NFL has prevented blacks from receiving upper-level management positions.

Billy Sims and the Detroit Lions will play host to Walter Payton and the Chicago Bears in a National Football League game to be broadcast nationally on CBS Thursday at 12:30 p.m.

The Lions, supported by rookie Sims' league-leading rushing, are in the running for a playoff position, while the Bears are not, although Payton is a top NFL rusher.

OSU Roundballers
To Get Early Test
Against Kentucky

By HIRAM L. TANNER

Ohio State will officially open its basketball season against Cleveland State this Saturday at St. John Arena. The Buckeyes won a 77-67 practice game from AIA (Athletes In Action) last week.

Approximately 4,100 fans were on hand to see Coach Eldon Miller display his 1980-81 Buckeyes. The game against Cleveland State will begin at 8:10 p.m.

Senior co-captain Herb Williams and senior Todd Penn led the Buckeyes in scoring with 26 and 12 points respectively. Williams caged 10 points the first half to help the Buckeyes to a 39-33 lead. Although Penn didn't start the game, his over all play on both offense and defense ignited the Bucks throughout the game.

Sophomore forward Clark Kellogg didn't play because of a viral infection. Coach Miller used 11 players and was very much pleased over the performances of Bryant Johnson, Granville Waiters, Marquis Miller, Larry Huggins and his two top scorers.

In what is certain to be an early test of the Buckeyes strength, Kentucky will host Ohio State in Lexington next Wednesday, Dec.

3. The Wildcats are the top ranked team in the country and have been picked by several sportswriters to win the NCAA title.

The Buckeyes, ranked No. 9 in United Press International and No. 13 in Associated Press, have all of their starters back from last year except for Kelvin Ransey, who is now with Portland Trail Blazers.

Miller's squad has eight games scheduled before opening Big Ten play on Jan. 8. Last year the Buckeyes were 21-8. That was good enough for a second place finish in the Big Ten and a trip to the NCAA Regional.

GRANVILLE WAITERS, the ex-center at East High School, goes high for a soft jump shot to score against Athletics in Action last Thursday at St. John Arena. Waiters, a sophomore, scored 6 points in the Buckeyes' victory. (RICH CHAMBERS PHOTOS)

Basketball Program
Planned For Youth

W.J. "Tootie" Bates, athletic director of Mt. Vernon Plaza Youth Association, announced this week that the group will launch its basketball program in January.

A cooperative arrangement has been finalized with the Eastside YMCA for the use of the "Y" gymnasium as MVPYA's home court, according to Bates.

The basketball program will include girls and boys ages 7 to 17. Shelton Stovall, recently appointed director of the Eastside "Y," said "The arrangement with Mt. Vernon is part of our new outreach program. The Mt. Vernon group is in touch with some 250 kids that we apparently have not reached. That's why we're making this special arrangement."

According to Bates, MVPYA will have three divisions with as many teams per division as needed to satisfy the number of youngsters who sign up. The divisions will include juniors from 7 to 9 years old, intermediates from 10 to 13 years, and seniors from 14 to 17 years of age.

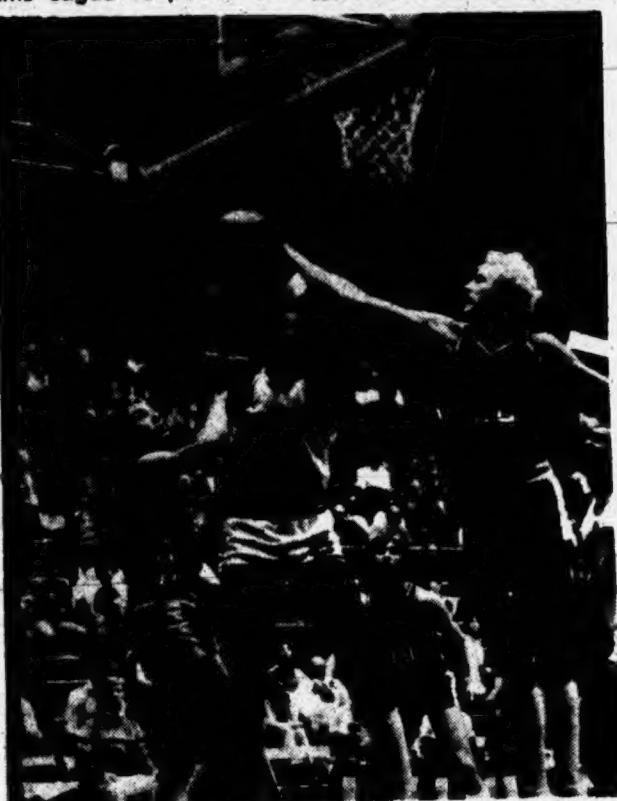

"Our kids have been so enthusiastic that we are committed to keeping them involved in some kind of constructive activity year-round," Bates said.

MVPYA maintained five football teams and five cheerleading squads during the football season this year. The teams were arranged by age and weight class. The 75, 90, 105, and 120 pounders played in the Archie Griffin Football League, while the non-weight middle schoolers played in the Independent Junior High School Football League.

"Our teams racked up a pretty good win-loss record for a first year effort," Bates contends. He said the 75 lbs. class group won 4, lost 2; class 90 lbs., won 2 and lost 4; class 105 lbs., won 4 and lost 2; class 120 lbs., won 1 and lost 3; and middle school, won 2 and lost 4.

The 75 pounders and the 105 pounders both won second place in the Griffin League, Bates said. The MVPYA football season culminates in an awards banquet at Sawyer Recreation Center auditorium at noon Saturday, Dec. 6.

HERB WILLIAMS, the Buckeyes' intimidating center, pulls down this rebound against Athletics in Action last Thursday at St. John Arena. Williams scored 26 points in leading the team to victory, 77-67.

Michigan Edges Buckeyes
In 'Fizzle Bowl' Fiasco

By HIRAM L. TANNER

Ohio State fizzled its opportunity to earn a second straight trip to the Rose Bowl by losing a 9-3 contest Saturday to its aged old rival, the Wolverines of Michigan. A crowd of 88,827 fans, the largest ever to see a football game in the Ohio Stadium, sat on their hands most of the afternoon as these two conservative football teams pushed each other up and down the field.

Michigan's victory gave them the Big Ten Title with a 8-0 record and left the Buckeyes at 7-1 and tied with Purdue for second place in the Conference. The Wolverines will play Washington University in Pasadena on Jan. 1 and the Buckeyes will play Penn State in the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz. on Dec. 26.

In this game of ultra-conservatism, the most thrilling moments of the game came in the final quarter when Ohio State tried to overtake the Wolverines' 9-3 lead. With one minute and eight seconds remaining, the Buckeyes started their last drive on their own 32.

OH NOI-The expression on Buckeye cheerleader Julie Payton tells the story Saturday after Anthony Carter caught a 13-yard touchdown pass to put Michigan ahead 9-3. The third quarter touchdown held up for a Wolverine victory.

Quarterback Art Schlichter hit split end Gary Williams with a nine-yard sideline pass and flanker Doug Donley with a 27-yard sideline pass to place the ball on Michigan's 32.

With 51 seconds on the clock, the Buckeyes still had time to kill the Wolves. Schlichter faded to pass but was forced to run for no gain as the clock ticked down to 26 seconds. In order to stop the clock, Schlichter passed out of bounds.

With third and 10 and the ball still on Michigan's 32, Schlichter was penalized 15 yards for intentional grounding. The Buckeyes last hope faded away when Schlichter was tackled on Ohio State's 44 yard line on fourth down.

In the first quarter Michigan held the ball for seven minutes and 35 seconds. They drove from their own 20 to Ohio State's 21 only to have Ali Haji-Sheikh miss a field goal attempt from 38 yards.

Early in the second quarter, Marcus Marek intercepted quarterback John Wampler's pass to give the ball to the Buckeyes on the Wolverines' 48. Tailback Calvin Murray picked up seven yards on two plays before Schlichter hit him with a screen pass and the fleet-footed tailback carried it 34 yards to Michigan's 16.

The Bucks offense stalled and Vlade Janakievski kicked a 33-yard field goal to give Ohio State a 3-0 lead.

Midway the second period, Michigan marched from its 28 to the Buckeyes' 26 before being stopped. Haji-Sheikh kicked a 43-yard field goal to tie the game at 3-3.

One of the Buckeyes best offensive efforts came with the opening of the second half. Starting on their own 20, the Buckeyes drove to their 48. Schlichter passed to Williams cutting across from the left but the split end fumbled when hit by Jackson.

Michigan cashed in on this break by marching 56 yards in 14 plays to score the game's only touchdown on a pass from Wampler to wide receiver Anthony Carter.

Late in the third quarter, the Buckeyes again tried to regain the lead by intercepting one of Wampler's passes in the end zone.

WINNING TOUCHDOWN—Anthony Carter of Michigan leaps high to pull down a pass from quarterback John Wampler that went 13 yards for a touchdown in the third period. Looking on as Carter scores the only touchdown in the game are Buckeyes Marcus Marek, center, and Todd Bell. (RICH CHAMBERS PHOTOS)

Murray Receives
Ohio State MVP

By HIRAM L. TANNER

Calvin Murray, the senior tailback from Woodbine, N.J., and only the sixth player in Buckeye history to rush for a 1,000 yards or more in a single season, was named the Most Valuable Player on the Ohio State football team for 1980. The announcement came during the annual football appreciation banquet at the Ohio Union Monday night. The MVP is voted on annually by the players on the squad.

A new award presented for the first time -- the Robert E. "Bo" Rein Award for the most inspirational player -- was handed to Ray Ellis, a defensive cornerback from Canton, Ohio.

Jerome Foster, the big defensive tackle from Detroit, Mich., won two awards, including the Jack Stephenson Award for the best defensive tackle on the team this year. Foster also won an award for being the co-winner of outstanding player in the Ohio State-Michigan game. Mark Sullivan, a junior middle guard from Timberlake, Ohio, was also a co-winner of this award.

For the outstanding player award in the homecoming game, quarterback Art Schlichter took top honors. John Frank, a freshman tight end from Mt. Lebanon, Penn., won the award for being the outstanding first year player on offense.

Shaun Gayle, a freshman defensive back, from Hampton, Va., was named the outstanding first year player on defense.

Academy Schedules
Admission Testing

The Columbus Academy, a college preparatory school for boys in grades kindergarten through 12, will have early decision tests and interviews for candidates for grades six and above in December.

Trustees Of Ridgway Nursing Center Thank Its Supporters

The trustees of the Isabelle Ridgway Nursing Center will hold its Annual Appreciation Banquet on Dec. 13. In a recent press statement the president of the nursing home board, Frank C. Cleveland Jr. said the banquet was an opportunity to thank supporters of the nursing home.

"First we look at all of the good things done for us over the year. Secondly, December does mark the year's end.

"We feel so especially good at this time of year, and in the whole spirit of thanking each other observing the revered holidays, and having two points to measure accomplishments (from January thru December).

"We also want to continue to place before the public the concept of Isabelle Ridgway Nursing Center, and that is: we are a community corporation with a group of local citizens (Board Members) who set policy for the operation of the Nursing Center which operates under certain Federal, State and Local guidelines.

"What this means is that Isabelle Ridgway belongs to the community in which it sits and thus makes its ownership that of each and everyone of us who wants to feel attached to the facility and what its community task is.

"This is why the acts of charitable giving and the striving to better the quality of nursing care and supportive services is so very important to us. We, the Board of Directors and the staff of Isabelle Ridgway, wish each and everyone a very Happy Holiday season."

Tutoring Program Helps Youngsters

The Milo-Grogan Unit of Boys' Clubs is offering a tutorial assistance program to provide 10 youths between the ages of 14 and 17 with one-to-one tutoring in math and reading skills.

Called SAKE (Strengthening Abilities for Key-toners in Education), the program is for youths who are members of Keystone, a national youth service club. SAKE is being assisted by the Alpha-Phi-Omega Co-Ed Fraternity at Ohio State University.

Strife-Ridden Local 423 Union Hall Burglarized

Strife-ridden Local 423, International Laborers Union, 620 Alum Creek Dr., was the victim of a phantom-like burglary last week, police reported.

George Churchill, the recently elected Secretary-Treasurer of the predominantly black local, told police that their union hall was burglarized Nov. 19, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The intruder or intruders, made off with 14 sets of drapes, valued at $1400, two sets of mirrors, $40, and a fanflush, $20. Churchill told police.

The entry point was unknown and there was no suspect in the burglary, police said.

Local 423 had been dogged by internal troubles for the past three years. The troubles were climaxed with the conviction of 15 of the union officials, including John Scales, the Business Manager on charges of misusing thousands of dollars.

Scales, who had the rare distinction of having the
